During my time with LondonExcellence I developed the LondonExcellence Awards, offering peer assessment and recognition; launched in 2004, the first awards were presented in July 2005.

All assessors were experienced managers who freely volunteered their time following robust training from myself This ensured that we could offer exceptional value for money allied to valuable learning experiences for all involved.

People often engaged with LondonExcellence both as assessors and as applicants. Our robust procedures ensured that any potential conflicts of interest were identified and addressed. All assessors signed confidentiality agreements.

During this time I worked with people from more than 250 organisations:
